

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A technology provides a function capable of simply passively utilizing a multiplicity of contents on networks. An information processing system (1, 11) includes a storage unit (3, 4, 13, 14) for storing information, and a control unit (2, 12), wherein the control unit (2, 12) searches locating information for locating where data exists, and judges whether or not the data located by the locating information comes under a predetermined category, and the storage unit (3, 4, 13, 14), when the data is judged to come under the predetermined category, stores the locating information and collects pieces of locating information for locating where the data exist.

09061200-052501